The first one is a block of the month with each square representing a decade of art. The second one is a monopoly challenge that had to have a wheelbarrow and Baltic Ave.

I took a class using the strip tube ruler. This pattern is called Strip Tube Tannenbaum.

This is a Christmas table topper I made for a fundraiser and it was auctioned off for $200. I was thrilled.

Cheryl Giovenco

Here is a picture of my latest quilt. Still need to do the binding. Quilt is 'Stars Upon Stars' (63"x74") designed by Edyta Sitar, quilted by: Sheila Osbrink. I used all 'Civil War' type fabrics.

These are Ian's Tshirts from Junior High and High School music and drama activities. They have been ready to assemble for 6 years and I am finally getting it done in time for Christmas! I will quilt it on my sit-down Bernina Q20 this week.

Patty McClearn

I made this scarf for my daughter for her birthday! The giant poinsettias were fun to make. I use them on my Christmas table as a runner and placemats.

Vicki Smola

Made by Vicki Smola, quilted by Patsy Franko.

Nancy Hall

I made a sewing machine case for my 7-year-old granddaughter's little Janome. The pattern is Under Cover from ByAnnie.com, and I added a bottom and carrying straps. The fabric is Sew Kind from Stitches by Charlotte for Studio E. It was designed by a little girl and a portion of the proceeds go to help kids born with hairlip.

With tutelage from Janice Z., I completed a purse for myself and one for my daughter-in-law.
Merry Christmas!

Kay Wentworth

This is in my series called "Portraits of a Beautiful Killer", and is a corvette. What would a series with that title be without a car in it? It is 30"X18"

Diane Short

Here are two projects I just finished.

Sue Davidson

From our mini group

Sandy Wright made mug mats for her family with special sayings for each family member and a Turkey Placemat for Pam Easley's Thanksgiving turkey but Pam could not use anything from outside her home due to strict COVID precautions.

Peggie McKensie shared a holiday quilt she made with a different mini group. She started with the start row and the members each added a different holiday themed row.

Suzy Davidson used fabric she had purchased from her favorited fabric designer to make this take on a modern quilt found in the book Quilting Modern by Gering and Pedersen

Linda Marley

I, Linda Marley, was one of the Christmas Tree Quilt raffle winners at the November meeting. So here it is all embellished with jewels by and Christmas pins.
